From the Newman Club to STM College

St. Thomas More College (STM) is the largest federated Catholic liberal arts college in Western Canada.

As a federated partner of the University of Saskatchewan, STM is financially and administratively independent, while fully integrated academically.

Since 1936, STM has fulfilled the call to educate students who are thoughtful, ethical, and committed to the common good. Whether advancing social justice, serving in public life, innovating in their professions, nurturing their community, or guiding their families, STM alumni ignite positive change.

Fun Fact:

Inspired by the vision of St. John Henry Newman, STM grew out of a Newman Club formed by Catholic students and welcomed by President Walter Murray at the University of Saskatchewan in the 1920s. Newman's belief in the integration of faith and intellectual life continues to shape the College's mission today.
